I hereby give Public Notice that I have received from HON. HIRAM RUGGLES, Assessor of Internal Revenue for the FOURTH DISTRICT OF MAINE, the Annual List of Taxes assessed for the year 1870, and that said Taxes have become due and payable, and that for the purpose of receiving and collecting the same, I will (by myself or Deputy) attend at the following named places, at the times mentioned, viz: For the County of Penobscot, at my Office in the Custom House Building, (lower floor) City of Bangor, daily, (Sundays excepted,) from the first to the thirty-first of May, inclusive. Office hours, from 9 A. M. to 1 P. M., and from 2 to 6 o'clock P. M., each day.

At DEXTER, on Tuesday the seventh day of June, at the Merchants' Exchange.

For the county of Piscataquis, at the Court House in Dover, on Thursday and Friday the 9th and 10th days of June.

For the convenience of persons in the county of Aroostook, owing such Taxes, I have arranged that they may pay the same to J. H. BRADFORD, Esq., at Houlton, at any time previous to the 15th day of June; or to AMASA HOWE, Esq., at Presque Isle, at any time previous to the 15th day of June.

And I further give notice, that all persons who shall neglect to pay the Taxes as aforesaid assessed upon them, to the Collector, or one of his Deputies or Agents, within the time specified, shall, after ten days notice of such delinquency, be liable to pay five per centum additional upon the amount thereof, together with interest at the rate of one per centum per month upon such Taxes, from the time the same became due, with proper costs and expenses of collecting the same by distraint. Also, the sum of twenty cents for the additional notice of such nonpayment, with four cents per mile for travel in serving the same.

Farm for Sale or to Let.
OF ABOUT 80 ACRES OF LAND, situated in Eddington, 1½ miles from Eddington Bend, and 4½ miles from the Toll Bridge at Bangor. Said farm has formerly been occupied by C. Alden Comins, and is under a good state of cultivation, cuts from 16 to 20 tons of hay. There is an orchard of old trees, and a small one of young trees. There is about 20 acres of wild land of mixed growth, and timber sufficient for building purposes. The buildings are in good condition except the house, which is old. Also lot of wood land adjoining the farm, containing about 48 acres, will be sold with the farm or not, as desired by the purchaser. There is lumber enough of it for peeling, to make fifty cords of bark on it. Also, a small lot of maple lot for making sugar. Said farm will be sold at a good bargain if applied for soon, or will be let on shares.

VALUABLE

And Mill Property
FOR SALE.
THE subscriber, desirous of disposing of all his interest in Timber Lands and mills, will sell on favorable terms the following
One-Half Township No. 5, Range 4, Oxford County.
The whole township contains twenty-six thousand acres, is heavily timbered with spruce estimated at sixty to eighty millions, all of which stands within near and easy hauling distance of the Magalloway river or its branches, which runs through the town, or Parmachena Lake, which is embraced within its limits.
Also 16,000 Acres of Land in the Town of Byron, Oxford Co.,

Also 1100 Acres Timber and Wood Land in Town of Gorham, N. H.
Two miles above the Alpine House, on the line of the Grand Trunk Railroad, and the banks of the Androscoggin river. There is a large quantity of wood on these lots which, from its proximity to the Railroad, is steadily increasing in value.
Also 2500 Acres Lands in the Towns of Albany and Stoneham. near the village of North Waterford, Oxford County. This land is covered with thrifty sapling Pine timber, standing near Crooked river, which runs through the tract. Logs put into Crooked river can be run to Saco by hauling four to five miles. There is a good mill privilege, with a single saw mill on the tract, the distance to the canal at Harrison ten miles; the location at South Paris is twelve miles. The land is desirable for settling purposes after being cleared of timber.
Also 435 Shares of Stock in the Lewiston Steam Mill Company, the whole capital stock being represented by 825 shares. The property of the company consists of a Steam Saw Mill, capable of manufacturing two to four millions of long lumber, with a proportionate amount of clapboards, shingles and laths. About fifteen acres Land in the city of Lewiston, well adapted for building purposes, and thirty thousand acres of Timber Land, well located on the Androscoggin river and its branches, from which but a small quantity of timber has been cut.

NEW TEAS.

The China Tea Company
have just received a large lot of very choice
NEW TEAS,
Imported by WONG AR SHOWE
the Chinese Tea Importer of Boston, which were carefully selected by him for his family trade.
These Teas come direct by Mail Steamer to San Francisco, and thence by rail to Boston, occupying less than forty days in their transit from China and Japan to Boston. Teas which come round the Horn in sailing vessels, are months on the ocean, and thereby lose one fourth of their strength and flavor. Ours are as fresh and strong as the day they left the Orient [illegible] warranted them to be the best ever offered in Bangor, [illegible] to any teas ever sold by any Tea store in the Union [illegible]. Our prices are as low as the lowest.

PURE COFFEE.
We have our Coffees directly of the Importer. This gives the profits and enables us to sell at a less price than ordinary traders.
Our Coffee is roasted for us every week at
Mr. Ar Showe's store, in Boston, and sent to us fresh. We do not keep ground [illegible] Coffees on hand, but have in our Store a first class mill in which to grind Coffees to order. This enables parties to select their Coffee in the berry, have it ground without extra cost before their eyes, and thus save themselves from being imposed upon by a mixture of peas and other cheap stuff.

PURE SPICES.
Our Spices are all ground to order, and are warranted strictly pure.

TOBACCO,
We have our Tobacco of the manufacturers, [illegible] enabled to sell at wholesale prices.

MUSTARDS,
We have a fine supply of English ground and [illegible] of the best and of low price.

RAISINS,
Our supply of Raisins [illegible].

We are selling at wholesale prices [illegible] Gold Medal Saleratus [illegible].

SOAPS,

Rice, Flavoring Extract, [illegible] American Pickles, [illegible] Spiced Oysters, [illegible] Walnut and Mushroom Ketchup [illegible].

WONG AR SEE,
The Young China Tea Merchant, [illegible]
The Great China Tea Company, established in Boston in 1868, and managed by Chinamen, cultivate their own Tea Plantation, and import only the first crop of Teas, which contain more strength and flavor than the later pickings. Our great facilities for obtaining Teas direct, enable us to supply a superior article at considerable less than is charged by the American dealers for inferior Teas. [illegible] money refunded.
Being the first firm in Bangor to retail [illegible] we have [illegible] good prices.

LINCOLN ON SLAVERY.

FRESH REMINISCENCES BY MR. CARPENTER.

The Indianapolis Journal, of the 16th, contains the following contribution from Mr. Carpenter, the artist:

"Mr. Chase told me that at the Cabinet meeting immediately after the battle of Antietam, and just prior to the issue of the September Proclamation, the President entered upon the business before them by saying, 'that the time for the annunciation of the emancipation policy could be no longer delayed. Public sentiment,' he thought, 'would sustain it—many of his warmest friends and supporters demanded it—and he had promised his God that he would do it.' The last part of this was uttered in a low tone, appeared to be heard by no one but Secretary Chase, who was sitting near him. He asked the President if he correctly understood him. Mr. Lincoln replied: 'I made a solemn vow before God that if General Lee was driven back from Pennsylvania I would crown the result by the declaration of freedom to the slaves.'

"When informed that certain ministers in Springfield would not vote for him, he drew forth a pocket New Testament, and said: 'These men well know that I am for freedom in the territories, freedom everywhere, as free as the Constitution and laws will permit, and that my opponents are for slavery. They know this; and yet, with this book in their hands, in the light of which human bondage cannot live a moment, they are going to vote against me; I do not understand it at all.'

"Here Mr. Lincoln paused—paused for long minutes—his features surcharged with emotion. Then he rose and walked up and down the reception room in the effort to retain or regain his self-possession. Stopping at last, he said, with a trembling voice, and his cheek wet with tears, 'I know there is a God, and that He hates injustice and slavery. I see the storm coming, and I know that His hand is in it. If He has a place and work for me—and I think He has—I believe I am ready. I am nothing; but Truth is everything. I know that I am right, because I know that Liberty is right; for Christ teaches it, and Christ is God. I have told them that a house divided against itself cannot stand; and Christ and Reason say the same, and they will find it so. Douglass don't care whether slavery is voted up or down, but God cares, and humanity cares, and I care, and with God's help I shall not fail. I may not see the end; but it will come, and I shall be vindicated; and these men will find that they have not used their Bibles right.'

"Much of this was uttered as if he was speaking to himself, and with a sad, earnest solemnity of manner impossible to be described. After a pause, he resumed: 'Does it not appear strange that man can ignore the moral aspect of the contest? A revelation could not make it plainer to me than that slavery or the government must be destroyed. The future would be something awful, as I look at it, but for this rock on which I stand, (alluding to the New Testament which he still held in his hand), especially with a knowledge of how these ministers are going to vote. It seems as if God had borne with this thing (slavery) until the very teachers of religion had come to defend it from the Bible, and to claim for it a divine character and sanction, and now the cup of iniquity is full and the vials of wrath will be poured out.'"

THE ONEIDA DISATER.

The following is the opinion of the United State Naval Court, consisting of Capt. Roe, Lieut.-Commander Mullin, and Paymaster Lyons, convened at Yokohama, to investigate the cause of the collision between the Oneida and the Bombay, as received by the War Department and forwarded to Congress:

The evidence in the case being in possession of the Court, the members after mature and studious consideration, find as follows, to wit: That on the 24th of January, 1870, at 5:15 p. m., the Oneida got under way from Yokohama and started down the Bay of Yeddo on her way to Hong Kong and the United States. About 5:30 p. m. she passed to the eastward of the eastward Light Ship, distant 320 fathoms, made sail and under low steam shaped her course south by east, one-quarter east, to clear Saratoga Spit and pass around Konowsaki Light; that she steamed this course, running at a speed of a little less than seven knots per hour, until she arrived in the vicinity of Saratoga Spit, when the Officer of the Deck believed the vessel to be sagging to the westward from this course, and hauled her up one and three-fourths points to the east, but only until the Navigator could get on deck, who, after being informed of it, promptly ordered that the ship be again put on her course of south by east, one-quarter east; especially stating that he could not go more to the eastward by reason of the danger of getting ashore on Saratoga Spit. About this time the English Peninsula & Oriental steamship Bombay, Captain Eyre, hove in sight around Konowsaki Point, and to the eastward of it, distant from the Oneida about five or six miles and hearing ahead, then rapidly passing on to the Oneida's starboard bow. The Oneida's lookout and Navigator, made out the masthead and starboard, or green light of the Bombay, and they saw the Bombay passing from the eastward to the westward of Konowsaki light, and her course was narrowly observed by the officers on duty and by the lookout on the Oneida, and she was seen passing clear and giving her a wide berth. That after running some fifteen or twenty minutes, rapidly changing her bearings more and more broad, about four to five points or more to the starboard bow of the Oneida, and while the Oneida's lights were brightly burning; the Bombay suddenly ported her helm and came directly at the Oneida, in the direction of the green light, and struck her at the starboard mizzen rigging at about eight knots speed, cutting away all her starboard quarter, at an angle of about 40°, and on a line from the main rigging to the wheels and to the starboard side of the combings of the cabin hatch, thence clear to her rudder head, down to the water's edge. That the Oneida had her whole wheel carried away, then rounded to port and stood on towards the shoal in an east by north direction and sunk in twenty fathoms of water in about twelve or fifteen minutes after, carrying down with her some one hundred and fifteen of her officers and men. It appears fully from the evidence that the Oneida at no time saw the red light, but constantly saw the green light of the Bombay, and that her own lights were properly placed in full bearing order. It also appears that the officers and crew acted with coolness and discipline and at no time were in doubt or hesitating; but, that when the Oneida was about five points on the Oneida's starboard bow, or three points forward of her starboard beam, the Bombay put her helm hard-a-port and went directly at the Oneida, when the Oneida at once flung her own helm hard-a-starboard, and it was in that position, and the ship was rapidly paying off to port, when the Bombay struck her. At this time the Oneida headed as high as east by north and the Bombay headed northeast. It is also shown that after the collision, the Executive officer of the Oneida, Lieut-Commander Stewart, hailed the Bombay several times, calling to her to lay by as the Oneida was cut down, and this when the Bombay was within a few yards of the Oneida's stern; that this call was unanswered and unheeded; that three or four big guns were fired from the Oneida, as signals of distress, with the full service charge of six pounds of powder, and that these signals were also unheeded.

It was also shown that at the moment of the collision, the Bombay stopped her engines for a very few moments, but she did not once lose her headway, but after crushing through the quarter of the Oneida, and making a breach so wide that the persons in her cabin looked into the open sea through a space of from 15 to 20 feet or more, the Bombay yet kept on her way direct. That she passed out of sight of the officers and men who were hailing and looking at her for five to ten minutes, and anchored safely in Yokohama harbor at 7:45 P. M., of the same evening. That the Bombay neither offered nor asked for assistance or communicated after the collision. The Court therefore totally exonerates and exculpates the Oneida and her officers, from all and any blame for this horrible disaster, and find that they acted promptly; that the Oneida was skillfully handled, and that the international rules of the road were carefully and intelligently obeyed.

The Court at this point observes, however, with deep pain, that the Oneida had lost her Gig by the collision; that the Dingby boat had been broken into before her sailing, and that during a typhoon some months previous, she had lost her two largest and most serviceable boats, thus leaving her in the hour of supreme distress with but two boats to save her people. Had the Oneida replaced her boats and gone to sea with a full compliment of them, it is morally certain that many more valuable lives would have been saved. The Court censures in the severest terms the navigation of the Bombay and say that her crossing so far over to the eastern shore with the green light of the Oneida in full view as it must have been, is an action so extraordinary as to stagger the common sense of safety and duty to say nothing of the regulations and seamanlike knowledge. A line due south by east, quarter east, drawn through Saratoga Spit-buoy, and another at a point to the westward of Konowsaki light, in a direction north by west, half west, after rounding the light, which is the pilot course; shows how impossible it was for the Bombay to have collided with the Oneida, unless indeed she ran directly at the latter's green light, as several witnesses testify she did. The cause of the collision then is altogether and entirely due to the Bombay, whose Commanding officer is to blame beyond excuse. Again, the conduct of the Bombay after the collision, in passing on out of sight and not communicating with the Oneida; in disregarding the loud hails of the Executive officers of the Oneida; disregarding the signal of her steam whistle, which kept blowing until she sunk, and finally not hearing, or if she heard, in not replying to three or four heavy signal guns fired from the Oneida, although they were distinctly heard in Yokohama, at a distance of over nine miles, is so guilty and so blamable, that this Court can only speak of it as unparalleled in cruelty. Finally from the evidence adduced, and which has been accumulated to a degree only in a measure equal to the gravity of the case; from the inspection of the known courses and positions on the chart, which is part of this record, we fix the fault of this dreadful collision; the total loss to the Government of the United States of the steam corvette Oneida, with destruction of the lives of 115 of her officers and crew, on the officers in command of the English steamship Bombay.

JOHN H. LYNDE, - - PROPRIETOR

WEDNESDAY, MAY 4, 1870.

THE REVIVAL OF BUSINESS.

With the beautiful spring weather of the past few days business has on all sides shown evidence of revival. The turtles of Wall street, says the N. Y. Herald, are cooing their sprightliest notes, and the butterflies of Broadway and the west side avenues are out in the sunshine. Every brilliant bird of fashion is making ready her gayest plumage, and the elegant shops up town and down town are in a flutter with eager customers. Nor is this encouraging change confined to the metropolis. It applies to the country trade at large. From all quarters we hear of renewed activity and cheerful anticipations. The South will come to the front with her great staples this year, as she has not done since 1861. She has largely increased and improved her cotton cultivation, and the whole country will feel the golden benefit in its exchanges ere the year be out. Our exports are steadily and largely gaining on our imports, the difference in the last nine months being over thirty-three millions in our favor, as compared with the same period of the preceding twelve months, and there is a fine prospect for all our products. The growth of a sturdy and well equipped emigration is remarkable, and the "fair lands of the West" are breaking out all over with a rash of new towns and villages. Public improvement and exploring enterprise are up and at work like giants refreshed and whichever way we turn we are gladdened by the hum of busy industry. Now if our good legislators, national and local, will only rub their eyes and wake up for the occasion, what a run we may make for this brave year 1870!

The U. S. Supreme Court has decided the case of the United States against Edward Padelford, an appeal from the Court of Claims brought before the Court of Claims under the captured and abandoned property Act, for half of the proceeds paid into the Treasury for 1293 bales of cotton captured at Savannah, and turned over to the Treasury agents, and sold under that act. The Court declares that at the time of the seizure of the petitioner's property, he was purged of whatever offense against the laws of the United States he had committed by the act mentioned in the findings, and relieved from any penalty he might have incurred, if the property had been seized before the oath was taken, and the faith of the Government was pledged to its restoration upon the taking of the oath in good faith. The petitioner's right to the property was made absolutely perfect by the pardon, notwithstanding the seizure after the pardon. No offense during the rebellion can be imputed. The proof of pardon is a substitute for the proof that no aid or comfort was given to the rebellion. These views require an affirmance of the judgment of the Court of Claims, and it is accordingly affirmed.

A meeting of citizens was held on Monday at Helena, Montana, Territory, to decide in reference to the prisoners A. Lecompton and Job Wilson, identified as the robbers and the would-be murderers of Lenhart, April 27.—The District Judge Simmes protested against any interference with the civil law, and advised the people to disperse. Leading citizens urged the necessity of striking terror into such ruffians. The meeting selected twenty-four persons to try the prisoners, who confessed the crime of premeditated robbery and murder. Both were found guilty at 2 p m., sentenced and hung at 4.30 p. m. A thousand persons congregated at the hangman's tree and frontier justice was satisfied. The trial was not by a Vigilance Committee, but by the first citizens. The whole affair was conducted in a quiet but most determined manner.

One of the most inhuman cases was reported to the police office at Lowell, Mass., late on Monday afternoon by two small boys, in the suburbs of the city. In an oak grove on Chelmsford street, a young man and woman were observed, and attracted the attention of the boys on account of their peculiar movements. After some time they left, and the boys visited the place and found a newborn infant, covered with leaves, with grass in its mouth. The officers took it in charge and carried it to the city almshouse, near by. No trace of the mother has yet been obtained.

The contested District Attorneyship in Philadelphia was decided Tuesday by Judge Allison, in favor of Mr. Sheppard, Democrat. This has been a curious case. First, Sheppard entered on his duties of office by a certificate of election, then a contest ensued, when the Supreme Court decided that Gibbons (Republican) was elected, and now the Court of Common Pleas decides (after the recount and almost interminable arguments) that Sheppard is elected.

The British House of Commons on Monday ordered the correspondence on the Red River difficulty to be laid before it, and went into Committee on the Irish Land bill. Mr. Lyman moved an amendment, making the term of agricultural leases 61 instead of 31 years, but it was opposed by Mr. Disraeli and withdrawn. Mr. Ball moved to amend by reducing the term to 21 years, which was rejected—209 to 290—and the Committee rose.

The motion for an inquiry into the monastic institutions of England coming up, Mr Gladstone implored members to show a spirit of concession and conciliation. He was not opposed to an inquiry into the law whereby monastic houses held property, but decidedly opposed to an investigation of their internal affairs. The motion was rejected by a majority of 110. Mr. Gladstone then moved the appointment of a committee to inquire into the tenure of the monastic property, which was carried by 291 majority.

CAUSE OF THE RICHMOND CALAMITY. An experienced architect, who has reviewed the plan of the Capitol to ascertain as to the cause of the terrible calamity, says that the girder which gave way was composed of two pieces of timber bolted together, making when combined an area of thirteen by twenty inches. It was formerly supported by columns, which were removed to improve the appearance of the hall of the House of Delegates. In the centre of the girder was a mortise which reduced the available strength to nine and a half by twenty inches. The fatal error was in making the interior changes without examining the girder, with reference to its capacity to endure the new stress placed upon it.

The first number of the New York Standard, John Russell Young's new paper, was issued on Saturday morning, and has just reached us. It is a folio sheet, and in its general appearance and make-up a pattern of neatness. The leading article announces that the paper will be independent in politics; and proposes to pursue a course of impersonal journalism. Mr Young is an able and experienced manager, and will no doubt make the Standard a lively and enterprising paper. We wish it success.

Cerunschi, the Italian banker, who was expelled from France for contributing money to the anti-plebiscite Committee, has been ordered to leave Geneva. His offence consisted in contributing a second hundred thousand francs from that city, for the same object. Before leaving, however, he received a telegram from Gambetta, the Radical member of the Corps Legislatif, and from the officers of the anti-Plebiscite Committee in Paris, acknowledging the receipt of the money.

TRIAL OF DANIEL McFARLAND FOR THE MURDER OF ALBERT D RICHARDSON.

On Monday afternoon Mrs. Runkle-Calhoun was called, and testified: I saw Mrs McFarland often, Mr McFarland seldom, while in the White Mountains. I presume I wrote those letters produced as evidence on the trial. I did not read them.

Question—Before going to the White Mountains what had been the subject of conversation between you?

Objected to by Mr. Graham, but was allowed.

Witness—I attended the reading by Mrs McFarland in April, 1866, at Steinway Hall.

Judge Davis desired the witness to read a letter and tell what month it was written in.

Witness—In the winter of 1866.

Judge Davis—Read that letter, and say what that word "J R Y" is.

Mr Graham again objected, but the question was admitted.

Witness—The word is "you." I went to his house at 72 Amity street; the room Mrs McFarland was in was hot and smoking. Mr McFarland came in drunk and spoke gruffly and rudely to me before I left. Mr McFarland turned on his wife and said, "You must not have your friends here during my absence." I was frightened, I heard loud talk after I left the room.

Judge Davis here offered a letter from Mrs McFarland to Mrs. Calhoun telling of the trouble she endured, and urged it as justice to this witness who is charged with being worse than the vilest strumpet and prostitute, namely a procuress and a pander. It is wrong that this should be kept from the public, that this woman and Mrs. Sinclair, who have been paraded in the public press, should not have means of proving that their conduct was only pure charity and kindliness toward an unfortunate woman.

The Recorder ruled it impossible to allow a wife to testify against her husband, and the letter therefore was inadmissible.

The first witness called, Tuesday forenoon, was David Atwood, Representative of the Madison, Wisconsin District in Congress. He testified that he [illegible] Mrs. McFarland giving a reading.

I was there [illegible] with Mr. and Mr. McFarland who [illegible] The reading took place in 1866.

Mrs. S[illegible], the mother of Mrs. McFarland was then called.

Judge Davis—Are you the mother of Mrs. [illegible]?

A. Yes, I am, sir.

Mr. Graham objected to this form of the question. They must put it, "Are you the mother of the woman who claims to be Mrs. Richardson?"

Ans.—My daughter was married in 1857 at Madison, N. H. She taught in the [illegible] in the Normal school in New Haven. She was married at about 20 years of age.

Mr. Davis asked the question which would go to prove that the expenses attendant on the sickness of Mrs. McFarland was paid by her friends and not by Mr. McFarland, and the Court ruled them out.

Judge Davis asked if witness had written to Mr. McFarland stating that her child had the whooping cough, and Judge Davis wished to have the letter's contents stated by the witness. It was ruled out.

Witness—Danny remained at my house until after the separation in the winter of 1867. During that time Mr. McFarland and family lived with me they never paid but ten dollars. After the separation she lived with me until May 9th, 1868, when she went to Indiana. She left Indiana in October 1869. She came to my house and was there until the shooting. To Mr. Graham—My daughter never worked in a factory. She might have worked in her father's shop in 1857. Those visits of my daughter were forced by necessity and not from affection. I don't know whether she had any money or not to go elsewhere. Saw Richardson in the fall of 1867. Miss Calhoun came with Richardson to my house. McFarland was not there. Did not know of the intimacy of my daughter with him. The first I knew Richardson was going to marry my daughter, was perhaps one year ago or perhaps two. Heard of the intercepted letter in the Spring of 1867. I think it was a rash letter to write so soon after the separation. I think my daughter acted perfectly right in every particular. I did not know what was the evidence on this trial.

Question—Do you approve of Mrs. Richardson going to Indiana to reside in order to obtain a divorce?

Ans.—I see no harm in doing so.

Witness—I first saw Mrs. Calhoun's letter in September, 1866. McFarland said it was a splendid letter. I know all the letters of Mrs. Calhoun had been seized.

The Court here took a recess.

After the recess Mrs. Sage was cross examined and testified:—Do not know of my own knowledge that my husband ever lent McFarland money.

Mrs Samuel Sinclair was called, but not being present, Miss Lizzie F Sage, Mrs. Richardson's sister, testified—Lived with Mr. and Mrs. McFarland in Brooklyn in 1858 for six weeks, when their first child was born. I saw McFarland drunk on Saturday on which he took me to matinee. He left me and when he came back was quite drunk. He took me by the hands and muttered some words of which only two were intelligible—love and [illegible]. I was about as much staggered as he was. No cross-examination.

"The Home Insurance Co., of New York, wrote in the year 1869 upon $410,000,000, of fire hazards about one thirtieth of the Fire Insurance business of the country. Its capital is $2,000,000, and assets $4,516,368. This gives the Home a surplus over its two millions capital of $2,516,368.30, and after deducting all liabilities a net surplus of more than one million dollars.

Injure the main spring of a watch and every portion of the works becomes disordered. The human stomach is to the human system what that elastic piece of metal is to a chronometer. The [illegible] this [illegible] saving implement is now offered to the public with the most confident assurance that it is an effective weeder, a leaves nothing [illegible] for the agriculturist or florist to desire.

That we do not overstate its merit will appear from the following quotation from a recent letter of Peter Henderson, the well known seedsman and florist, of Bergen, N. My old foreman, who has, for the past twelve years been at the head of my vegetable department, though strongly prejudiced against all "patents" says, it will save at least 50 per cent of our labor in weeding." I think it will do even better than that, particularly in root crops, that require thinning out, such as beets, turnips, onions, parsnips or carrots."

Ladies who cultivate flower gardens will find the "Weeder" just "the thing" for raising the [illegible] and [illegible] among the plants and flowers. For sale at Seed and Hardware Stores. ALBERT NOYES.

FORTY FIRST CONGRESS—SECOND SESSION

WASHINGTON, May 3

SENATE.

The House Joint Resolution creating the 30th of May in each year a public holiday for decorating the graves of Union soldiers, was taken up

Mr Sherman said he was opposed to creating a precedent for the establishment of public holidays on every conceivable subject—Contracts could not be made on legal holidays and they interfere with the ordinary business avocations, which should not be permitted, except upon most sufficient reasons

Mr Drake thought the nation could well afford to appropriate one day in the year to the memory of her three hundred thousand slain

Mr. Sherman replied that the graves of those soldiers, like that of the Revolutionary heroes, soon to be lost sight of, but that the resolution contemplated a fixed holiday for all time hereafter It was then referred to the Com on Military Affairs, 37 to 12

The House bill granting a pension to Mrs Lincoln, coming up, Messrs Sumner and Trumbull expressed themselves in favor of it.

Mr Edmunds said a similar bill was now before the Committee on Pensions upon which they expected to report during the present week, and would also report certain facts not now before the Senate. upon which Senators would be justified in voting for or against the bill. He therefore asked that the House bill be placed upon the calendar, which was done

A bill was introduced by Mr Cameron to provide medals for the Massachusetts and Pennsylvania volunteers.

The Joint Resolution appropriating $25,000 from the freedmen's bureau funds for the benefit of Wilberforce University, was discussed and laid over.

Mr Trumbull remarked that the distinction in favor of colored students demanded the prompt attention of the Senator from Massachusetts (Sumner); he did not know but the Senator would provide a repeal of the charter because white men were excluded from the University (Laughter.)

A number of bills were passed, including those for the relief of J Ross Brown, limiting the number of special Treasury agents to 53, and the Omaha and Northwestern Railroad land grant bill

Mr Saulsbury amendment to the latter, that 200,000 acres be reserved to aid Delaware in building a breakwater and levees, was rejected, 20 to 28

The Conference Committee's report on the Census bill was adopted, and the Senate adjourned

HOUSE.

A joint resolution was adopted, 86 to 65, for a final adjournment of Congress on Monday July 4th

Mr Jenckes of R. I, proceeded to explain and defend the civil service bill from the special committee on the subject substantially the same as previously reported

Mr Peters of Maine, objected to the bill that there was nothing in it to prevent rebels, with their hands dripping with loyal blood, from passing examination and obtaining offices

Mr Jenckes asked what was to prevent the appointment of disloyal men to minor offices.

Mr Peters said he would have neither rebel nor Democrat in any offices of the government

Mr Beck of Ky, remarked that the gentleman from Maine did not seem to care whether office holders were thieves or not so long as they were not Democrats

Mr Peters replied that they did not have thieves in the Republican party (Laughter on the Democratic side.

Mr Beck was glad to hear it. That was a new discovery.

The bill was further opposed by Messrs Peters Ela and Benton.

The morning hour having expired the bill went over.

The House then went into Committee of the Whole on the tariff bill.

All the remaining paragraphs relating to iron castings were struck out.

The duty on steel of circular shapes or form, and on steel of all shapes or forms, cast, cut, rolled or hammered to patterns, not others provided for, was fixed at 3½ cents per pound, a reduction of half a cent from the rate as fixed by the committee

The next paragraph was on steel railway bars, 2 cents per pound, and all railway bars made in part of steel, 1½ cents per pound, provided that the metal converted is cast or made from iron by the lessener or pneumatic process, of whatever form or description, shall be classed as steel

Mr Benjamin of Mo, moved to make the duty on Bessbue steel one cent per pound

Mr Bingham of O, moved to make it $36 per ton, an increase of $15 on the present rate

Mr Schenck of O, sustained the amendment in a lengthy speech.

Finally the debate closed and Mr. Bingham's amendment was agreed to, 78 to 63.

BANGOR TEMPERANCE SOCIETY

ELEVENTH MEETING

The interest of our citizens in the temperance movement seems unabated On account of the absence of faithful John,' who was detained upon important business they were forced to obtain admission to the hall by [illegible] means, but with the [illegible] of a stately guardian of the public weal

The meeting was opened at 8 o'clock with Vice President I S Wheelwright in the chair Mr Wheelwright called the attention of the meeting to the City Marshal This officer [illegible] the law relating to [illegible]

[illegible]

Mr J C Crossman being called upon by the President, responded in some very happy and judicious remarks She said if it were not for intemperance we should not need this new jail which is being built We should not need the poor house nor so many policemen The citizens seem always willing to pay their money to provide for the victims of intemperance But when asked to contribute of their means to assist in preventing the young from being drawn away from purity and rectitude they are not so ready to respond She believed the best manner of reforming the community from intemperance is to begin with young children, and so instil correct principles into their minds that they will ever afterwards conform to them (Applause) She began, some five weeks since, the formation of a section of the Cadets of Temperance—The order now comprises here about 160, mostly children (Applause) A gentleman recently came in with his three little boys, and took the triple pledge against liquor, tobacco and profane language This work has so far been accomplished without pecuniary assistance from any but the immediate movers We may soon need help, and when we call, we hope the true friends of Temperance will be ready to come to our assistance We expect Hon Joshua Nye, of Waterville, here soon, to assist us in our work

She believes they have commenced right, and, while of the same mind, proposes to continue her efforts in this direction. For fifteen years her interest in this glorious cause has been deep and earnest, but as ladies are not priviledged to speak publicly, her devotion to any cause must be less widely known. She had some years since made a resolve that, if ever called upon to express her sentiments upon this subject in public, she would do so

She alluded to a case which came under her personal observation, in which one man but of an entire company in the United States service, was the only one who failed to support his family at home He only sent home one small sum of money He was the only man in that company addicted to drinking His entire pay was consumed in the form of liquor, and his family at home was destitute and suffering for the necessaries of life—such facts, recurring so frequently under her observation, had convinced her that she was called upon to do all in her power to avert the dread calamities of intemperance from those who are now forming their characters, and who look to older persons for both precept and example

Hon Lewis Barker (of Stetson) responded to an invitation from the chair in one of his telling and unreportable speeches, he protested against being reported as saying in a recent speech here, that he was no temperance man He believes in temperance to the utmost, (applause), as was very forcibly set forth in his remarks

"TOO DEEP FOR THAT."

Yes, said Farmer Brown,
Bringing his hard fist down
On the old oak table
They say that men can talk
From Paris to New York,
Through a sunken cable!

'Tis perfectly absurd,
For to hear a single word
No man is able,
And it's clear enough to me
That this wide-spread mystery
Is a foolish fable
The news we get from Rome
Is all made up at home,
'Tis my conviction,
And that you see, will account
For the terrible amount
Of contradiction.

"Yes" said Farmer Brown
Bringing his hard fist down
On the old oak table,
"My wife and I have tried
The experiment, we tied
A good stout bit of cable
To the fence just over there,
And the rocker of this chair,
And we couldn't do it,
Though we screamed ourselves as hoarse
As tree-toads, but of course
Not one word went through it"

Don't talk to me, I pray,
Of fresh news every day
Through sunken cables
Sea yarns are always tough,
And I have heard enough
Of such old fables!"

HORSES.

We cut from one of the oldest, and still one of the best of the agricultural journals the following witty scrap:

"SPELD OF HORSES I see in the papers that horses trotting one mile in 2¼ minutes, or at the rate of 25 miles an hour, sell for ten or twenty thousand dollars each although good for little else They cannot plow, draw manure, or team all day so well as a good stout farm horse I understand that Commodore Vanderbilt has a horse that he would not sell for two or three of his best locomotives either of which will go from New York to Buffalo by daylight. Is this wisdom? Ought your readers to admire such nonsense? A neighbor of mine gave twelve hundred dollars for a horse that would trot a mile in three minutes less than my old nag that I gave two hundred for I told him I would start three minutes sooner, and save the thousand dollars difference, as my time is not worth three hundred dollars a minute

"AN OLD FARMER"

Now, friend 'Farmer," suppose we turn the tables? You judge of the value of a horse as a worker only Is there no travelling, then? Is the horse of no use for anything but the plow and the cart? Suppose that we should retort, by the same style of reasoning, 'They cannot plow draw manure, or team all day so well as a good stout farm horse' All very true But what if a man has no land, and don't want to plow? Suppose he lives in the city, and does need air and exercise? Is a man to get into a manure cart, with his family, and drive off for pleasure with seventeen hundred weight of horse flesh before him? Or is no man to be allowed to use a horse except for farm purposes? We don't find fault with draft horses They have their own merits, and their own beauty Indeed we never see a team of large, well proportioned work horses that we do not "cotton" to them We never see a dray, or an express team, with a string of three or four huge horses, that we do not watch them till they are out of sight. And on the ferry boats it is our special pleasure to watch the loaded wagons with prime animals before them, coming on or going off

But why should one be so niggardly as not to admire other qualities in a horse except bulk and strength? Is speed nothing? Is grace nothing? Is endurance nothing? Is fine equine intelligence and high spirit nothing? Does our "Old Farmer" carry out his views in regard to men! Here is ROBERT BONNER, for instance. We suspect that the 'Old Farmer" could lift a heavier stone, swing the scythe or cradle longer, chop more wood in a day, and do more manual work of all sorts than he could But is the Editor therefore good for nothing, because he is not good for farm work? Are we to whistle down the wind all artists merchants, editors, lawyers, doctors and ministers too, because though they may be adapted to their own sphere they are not well fitted for farm work? And shall we say about all other people not farmers, Ought your readers to admire such nonsense?"

No doubt if our "Old Farmer" lived in South Africa, he would ride oxen instead of horses, as all the farmers there do, and then we should hear him deriding horses altogether and praising oxen, as slower, steadier, tougher, and stronger than horses, besides being fit to eat when once they are knocked up —or knocked down rather!

Making crops is all very well Money making is good too But there is something else in life worth having besides hay, turnips, and green backs Our Old Farmer' likes a horse that feeds his pocket, and that's all very well. But there are higher pleasures than pocket-pleasure A man with a sound conscience, an honest heart, and a good wife by his side, riding down the Coney Island road, in the gay sunshine of a sweet June day, with a horse able to step off fifteen to eighteen miles an hour and thank you for the chance, and vexed when you pull him up—is there no exhilaration in that? no health? no good sound sense?

The fact is, under proper circumstances a good horse is to be prescribed as a moral influence The immorality connected with fast horses has largely arisen from the fact that the wrong men have driven them What business has a young man, just beginning life with his fortune to make, to put two thousand dollars into his equipage, and shine out along the road as if he had earned the right to such a turnout? It is living beyond his means It is simply a culpable extravagance

No man, either, should own a horse who is not himself more of a man than the brute he drives Men that drive a noble animal down the road only to find some new occasion to drink, swear, smoke, and play the rowdy, have no right to own a horse It is reversing the order of Nature It is putting the inferior above the superior

But good honest men, who work too many hours a day, middle-aged men, who have laid a sound foundation and, built well upon it, over taxed lawyers, with gaunt eyes and sunken cheeks, old bankers and forty year old deacons and sound clergymen—these all, and such like, ought to be out more in the open air, to seek relaxation, exercise, and social enjoyment. And is there any better way for those who are doomed to live in a city to do this than driving a good team? Lazy young men seek too much pleasure, and busy men do not seek it enough

No no, 'Old Farmer" you are all wrong Farm horses for farms, road horses for the road, slow and heavy for work, quick and lasting for the wagon Everything in its time and in its place

[Henry Ward Beecher in N Y Ledger

DISEASED MEATS Good meat is neither of a pale pinkish color nor of a deep purple tint. The former is indicative of disease, and the latter is a sign that the animal died from natural causes. Good meat has also a marbled appearance, and the fat, especially of the internal organs, is hard and suety, and is never wet, whereas that of diseased meat is soft and watery, often like jelly or soddened parchment. Again the touch or feel of healthy meat is firm and elastic, and it hardly moistens the fingers, whereas that of diseased meat is soft and wet—in fact, it is so often wet that scum (the watery part of the blood) runs from it, and then it is technically called wet Good meat has but little odor, and this is not disagreeable, whereas diseased meat smells faint and corpse-like, and it often has the odor of medicine This is best observed by cutting it and smelling the knife or by pouring a little warm water upon it Good meat will bear cooking without shrinking, and without losing very much in weight; but bad meat shrivels up, and it often boils to pieces.

[Good Health.

Pity the sorrows of a poor young man who went to Houghton Michigan. He was to assume the duties of principal in a school near that copper-mining city. Seated at the desk in the chair of authority at an early hour, he gazed timidly at the pupils as they entered after each new arrival pulling his hat down farther over his eyes A lady assistant suggested that it was time to open school He hesitated, pulled off his hat, and, without seating them to their seats asked the pupils their names and some irrelevant questions A titter went round The school became gradually more and more disorderly while the perspiration rolled down the young man's brow For 20 minutes, irresolute he stood the picture of embarrassment At length seizing his hat, and pulling it firmly over his eyes he stalked out of the school house amid screams of laughter and derision. Seeking the friend who had procured for him the situation, he informed him that he had "quit." His friend asked explanation. "Why," said he, a painful flush overspreading his countenance, "there are big girls there, young ladies at least 15 years old!" He has since engaged himself on the canal in "getting out" cordwood, which he thinks lighter labor than ed icating "big girls." Yet, strange to say, he came from Chicago.

genuine olive oil, none is better than cotton seed, since we are able to get it fresh, while the genuine olive oil often shows, from its age, a beginning at least of rancidity This cotton seed oil resembles linseed oil in its drying properties, and makes, consequently, a better oil for painters than for lubricating machinery. Boiled with litharge, it yields an excellent drying oil Extensive manufactories are now being erected and the demand is already enormous The crude oil is used to make soap to grease wool, etc
